Dear David,

For nearly a century, we have taken aviation and aerospace education above and beyond. We grew out of a vision to teach the world to fly, and from that elevated vantage point, we have kept our eye on the horizon to discover what lies beyond it, seeking opportunities to blaze a trail of innovation in the industry we love and serve.

Now, with more than 100 innovative degree programs at all levels—many of them nationally ranked, year after year—we are best in class and the world's leader in aviation and aerospace education. And with your help, we'll stay that way.

Our prominent position and influence on the industry is not a given. It's something we have to earn every day. To remain in front, we need to do more to ensure Embry-Riddle is prepared to meet the needs of the industry it serves – especially during these trying times – and into the future.

That's why we are asking you to support a new philanthropic fund at Embry-Riddle. We call it, Eagle Horizons: The Embry-Riddle Fund for the Future of Aviation and Aerospace. Your gift to the Eagle Horizons Fund is important to our students ... and to the industry. It makes possible the dreams of those students whose vision and passion for aviation and aerospace will one day transform our world.

YOUR GIFT CAN CHANGE THE FUTURE

Your contribution helps the university maintain its excellence in education by supporting the very things that make the Embry-Riddle educational experience so unique:

▪ Student Success

Your support provides a transformative educational experience to every student. Embry-Riddle has a reputation for personal attention to student success, whether it's on the flight deck, in the lab or classroom. We are renowned for hands-on, project-based learning, innovative research opportunities, and academic excellence and rigor.

▪ Faculty and Program Support

Your contribution to the Eagle Horizons Fund helps the university attract top-notch faculty who are experts in their fields. It allows Embry-Riddle to add new programs, like data analytics and cybersecurity, to keep pace with a changing industry and provide the aviation and aerospace industry with the specialized talent they need.

▪ Research

Your donation supports innovative research – a key component of an Embry-Riddle education – with nearly 90 percent of students directly connected with faculty members and industry partners through research projects, capstone projects and internships. From developing new biofuels to working on advanced propulsion systems, our students are working with industry and government partners to drive innovation and find solutions to new challenges.

▪ Facilities and Technological upgrades

Your support of Embry-Riddle's Eagle Horizons Fund allows the university to provide cutting-edge technology and equipment to provide the best learning experience possible for our students, so they are well prepared to succeed in the work force.

YOUR GIFT MAKES A DIFFERENCE

Gifts of all sizes have a direct impact on our students and faculty. They help Embry-Riddle provide challenging experiences that open new horizons and prepare our graduates for future success. Your gifts also show our students that you care.

We'll keep you apprised of the impact your contributions have had on our website, our Eagle Horizons e-newsletters, and periodic videos. You'll hear from the students themselves, as well as from faculty, staff, and others who have benefitted from your support of Embry-Riddle.

Please consider making a gift today to support Embry-Riddle and the many horizons our Eagles will pursue that will shape the future of aviation and aerospace.

Sincerely,
Marc Archambault
