#GivingTuesday

#UNCW

Today on #GivingTuesday, give hope to those struggling with mental health.

Recognized as local Health Care Hero, recent graduate Megan Bolden '20 is applying her passion for helping others to her work as a school-based therapist. Megan's advocacy through social work is helping adolescents navigate mental health barriers through prevention services.

UNCW's newly constructed Veterans Hall will be home to several allied health programs and will help graduates like Megan meet our region's health care demands. This new building also houses a resource center for the university's 2,000+ military-affiliated students.

Katherine, your generosity helps fuel opportunities to create community, clinical experiences and internships that will prepare Seahawks to excel in their careers and serve their community.

Your UNCW family is counting on you today. Join the movement and give to what matters to you.
